Runaway Planet is proud to announce their newest release "Tarnation".

"Tarnation" is a unique concoction of soul-piercing original bluegrass music combined with a few time-honored classics and compelling instrumentals that this talented quartet truly made their own. With tracks dipping deep into the enduring wells of the olden days and plunging into the rocking currents of more recent years, Runaway Planet delivers something for everyone on this latest release.

The members— guitarist Greg Alexander, mandolin player Ben Ellis, banjoist Steve Brauer, and bassist Michael Proveaux, sharing the weight of songwriting, arrangement and production, have put together a collection that their fans and critics will sing along with and praise for years to come.

Founded in Little Rock, Arkansas in 2001 this group has a long list of awards and accomplishments to call their own. With their latest appearances on NPR's nationally syndicated "Whad'Ya Know?" and "Car Talk" along with Michael Johnathon's internationally syndicated radio show "WoodSong's Old-Time Radio Hour", Runaway Planet finds themselves playing to an ever growing community of listeners excited by their pure acoustic energy
